Dip your tongue into the Foxhole

A new dining option in Sinder

“Nothing better than getting some meat along with drinking straight from the tap!”

BY MIRANDA OKAMIMI-LANCASTER

Foxhole has always been synonymous with innovation, pushing boundaries in sex, art, and fashion, and now, it offers a unique dining experience that complements the club's dynamic atmosphere.

The menu at Taste the Fox is a testament to culinary creativity, featuring a range of dishes that cater to diverse tastes while maintaining a focus on quality and presentation. From artisanal pastries to gourmet sandwiches, every item is crafted with meticulous attention to detail. The café's standout feature is its selection of signature dishes inspired by global cuisines, each with a unique twist that reflects the club's eclectic spirit. Of course, it offers a wide range of vegan and semen-free options, too.

Start your day with a Parisian breakfast platter, complete with freshly baked croissants, brie, and a selection of seasonal fruits, or have the truffle-infused mushroom risotto and the smoked salmon tartine for lunch. The giant olives will amaze you with their sizes, and the prosciutto platter with bathe you in mouthwatering aromas.

Paired with undeniably the best bar in the Rift, Foxhole is now the prime spot to eat, drink, and enjoy yourself in a casual, business, topless, or even bottomless setting.

A fresh unicorn prosciutto or an ostrich French omelette? Foxhole has it all.

OPINION

Many powerful beings walk the Rift and the planes surrounding it, but are they truly gods? Have they ascended to the top of their potential or they only pretend to have ultimate powers? If they were truly omnipotent, as they tend to boast, why would they remain stuck in the Rift?

The only true power lies in the beings beyond our comprehension, not the ones that walk the cobblestone streets with us. The elder gods rest in their shrines, always aware, always powerless, always seeking to manipulate the weak mind to do their bidding. From the death cults of Sinder to the lust cults of the Sacred Valley, the elder gods' attention is touching every corner of life in Rift and TOURISM, PAGE 4

Discord builds up as possessions disappear

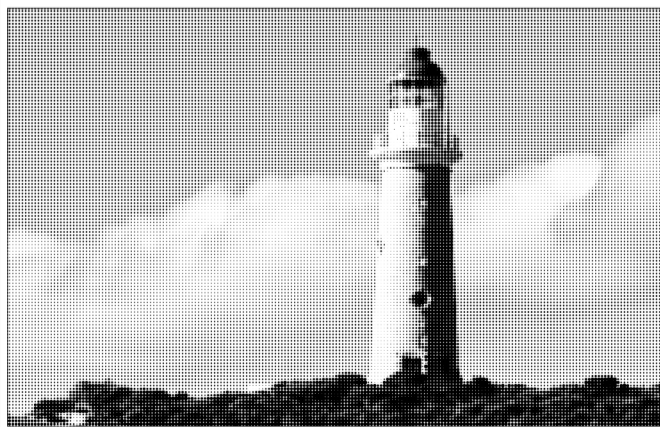

BY VOX-NA ATLAS

In the ever-unpredictable Rift, where objects have a penchant for appearing and disappearing at whim, a new and troubling trend has emerged. Lately, a surge in vanishing possessions has left residents baffled and frustrated. Cherished photos, essential documents, and everyday items are disappearing without a trace, leading to widespread concern.

The phenomenon has been attributed to an enigmatic force referred to as Discord. This mysterious entity is blamed for the sudden influx of disappearances, sowing chaos in its wake. Citizens of the Rift report increased instances of lost belongings, exacerbating an already fraught situation in a universe where stability is a rare commodity.

As the community grapples with this growing crisis, the call for solutions intensifies. Until discord's true nature is unveiled, residents remain on edge, vigilant against the next inexplicable disappearance in the ever-turbulent Rift. Some claim that the world we RIFT, PAGE 2

A cursed dimension

SACRED VALLEY

BY JOHN PAUL ALEXANDER

Reports coming from the research laboratory in the Obsidian Plateau indicate that the alternative universe known as “Weird Sinder” keeps spreading as the void retreats, exposing it for deeper exploration.

The dimension, known to the researchers as world 10101 is still shrouded in mystery. There are no answers as to what happened in Weird Sinder to warrant its current state, or why it exists at all. The latest theory is that Weird Sinder isn't a part of a specific shard of the rift, but rather an amalgamation of everything going wrong in the vicinity of town of Sinder.

The excavation around the destroyed lighthouse is still ongoing, and chief archaeologist Assam Batif reported the discovery of several pieces of high-tech machinery that might have been the cause of the explosion. Questions remain if similar machinery is present in the Sinder lighthouse, too, and under what conditions it can explode. The officials point that there is absolutely no need to BEYOND THE VEIL, PAGE 5
